Awards

It seems I have experienced the ultimate banksy.info humiliation and had my title of 'awards organiser' stripped from me with no explanation before i've even managed to send all the 15 awards or conducted the online charity auction (in my expense and time ). No doubt silky will find another monkey to do this as I certainly shan't be doing it now. All the awards are at leonard street gallery. Speak to frankie about charity inclusions from the artists and mistatches certificates are at leonard street also.

So much for the peace out.

Shame it's ended like this FPR, but thanks for all your effort, I'm pretty sure it wouldn't of happened without you, and I hope you can sort out some awards next year, perhaps even bigger and better.

Oh come on this is getting stupid Silky. No I want to be the awards guru. No me. FPR sweated his balls off for this to work. You helped a great deal, and everyone is grateful but this is leaving a sour taste in many peoples mouths. Surely it was only meant to be a wee laugh. Its hardly the f**king Oscars. I dont think Banksy gives a f**k, lest knows about it. Its just a laugh! But at the same time someone worked hard for it. That night i was at a friends party. I worked hard to get wankered with my mates. My reward was a missing 3 hours of memory, but they are my three missing hours. No one can take them away from me. Let FPR have his tag.

Just woke up today and my awards organiser title had been removed. Its no accident. Its just the final kick in the nuts it feels. The last things that happened was we had a peace out publically and left it on a good vibe. However this is the last straw that broke this camels back.

seems these respect points are f**king meaningless after all, cos i cant see where you've been shown any mate. I think you have a LOT of support from members on here. Do as you please with Urban.. just run with it, a lot of artists and members have got your back.

I won't pretend to fully understand what has gone on but I'm guessing Silky feels he is not getting enough recognition for the effort he put in? But whatever is eating him he needs to speak to FBR privately; public acts such as this aren't the way to go about it. It is not nice to see and does the forum no favours.

This is bang out of order FPR. I had other stuff to do the past couple of weeks but would have loved to have come along and thanked you for all your effort in sorting out this evening for the forum. One thought that has kept me cheery though is that as you'd done so much it was obviously going to be a storming success and that I could go to next years and make up for missing your inaugural year. Not smiling now.

maybe one of the mods or someone can set up a poll and we let the members of the forum decide how to progress. It'd be a really good democratic move and empower all the members. Im now nervous of placing anything of worth on here in case the idea, photo, info, whatever.. gets signed away to the "owner" of the site. What are others peoples thoughts ?

i really wanted to stay out of this but what the fuck. mark, do the same as next year, same name the lot. we can sort a new domain name no worries .co.uk .org perhaps? .tv etc etc, i know a forum that will no doubt be happy to facilitate without the need for any control. the artists know the score, matt small knows the score, beejoir knows the score. the galleries know the score, the people know the score. with your commitment to the cause and not the glory this can continue to be the success only you made it, everything that happened on here was assistance, hosting etc, you can easily set up voting on a dedicated site and link to it.

as for t-shirts - a tenner each? max. domain name - £8.99 a year?
silky, i'll bung you £30 quid and let's be done with all this yeah?

stick to your guns finsbury, the only way to be true is by being it to yourself, if you're not people see through it very quickly. perhaps others should bear that sentiment in mind.

the vibe in this room just got a whole lot worse.

see you all later. 😞

Mate it was my baby. My error was saying yes to allowing silky register the urban art awards.I was very busy and took my eye off the game. Its time to move on. Personally I don't like the word 'urban' that much, the pisser is i love this damn community and I might get banned for speaking out. I'm going to go chill now. Need to think happy thoughts.

If you get banned for this he has to ban the lot of us because I don't think anyone will stand for that decision. You've done nothing wrong. In fact he wouldn't have to ban me I'd leave.

You've got the respect of many on here FPR (and I'm not talking about your high respect score) You've been here a long time and have never caused any trouble, I'm sure you won't get banned, that would be out of order.

You should take the awards and carry it on.

Oh God i'm so scared of posting on here for fear of offending anyone but I would like to say a couple of things.

Firstly its such a shame it came to this, I think it would be great if you and Silky talked about it together - really bump your heads together and say your piece to each other.

Secondly, (I'm not saying I believe this but) maybe when you were saying 'this was my idea' and 'I should own the name' it went against it being the 'forum awards' and instead your awards...(again I'm not saying I think this was your intention I'm just trying to get to grips with the situation) and thus you are no longer the 'forums award organiser' but the organiser for the Urban art Awards - which can now be independent from the forum if you wish - but I see there being no problem advertising it on here.

Please I'm not saying I agree or disagree both you and silky seem like great people and in all honesty I think the best outcome would be for both of you to reconcile your differences and already start planning next years awards so they can be bigger and better!

anyway sorry for the ramble and I know I'm fairly new - but I love this place and want what's best for it.

Good luck

Sensible words valeha, I do hope it can be sorted out to FPR satisfaction.

I thought silky was having a break, so I don't know why he'd come back just to change your title.

suggested the urban art awards and i was pleased it didn't have the heavy commercial connotations that 'print of the year awards' had but didn't think it was perfect but said yes to him registering it as i felt snowed under and didn't have time to think too much. Remember i was also up to my ears with auction saboteur as well as a mammoth logistical feat of compiling the data and making the huge presentation.

hey I wish you didn't pick that quote out - it kinda looks out of context and like I was saying its what i felt - which I explained it wasn't.

anyway - this is a bit of a crazy situation and this is going to make you laugh - but it kinda reminds me of the situation the respect party is in (the George Galloway on) yes I was a supporter but since the split - which started over something getting blown out of control - I have left the party and feel alienated...I don't want the same to happen here!!

Please this is not someting that can't be resolved no matter how far either of you think it has gone!

please!
