can i just say that although this is the most uncomfortable car crash thread i think this forum has ever seen, it must be said that by having the debate in public, with numerous different people involved and most importantly direct dialogue between the two pratagonists, if it helps to put an end to the atmosphere in here then i'll consider it worth it.

if you have to ask for a present then it's not a present at all. It's payment.

Silky - It sounds like FPR is asking whether you are happy to transfer the registration of the name 'Urban Art Awards' over to him.

I think such a gesture would go very far in clearing up the bad blood and making this forum a pleasant place once again.

Are you happy to do this?

Im affriad not 😞 I came up with the name, and Fins has said he does not like it anyway 😞 so I cant see any reason for him wanting it?

Silky - It seems to me like FPR has reconsidered his position about the name.

The issue of the domain name being registered to you may have a lot to do with FPR feeling pushed out, especially since he came up with the idea of the awards and did the lion's share of the work this year.

What is the problem with transferring the name over to FPR if you are happy about him running with the idea?

You have previously said that you are not a control freak, so why insist on retaining the ownership of the domain name?

Why does it feel like your asking questions for Fins 😊 dan do you not worry that there may be continued back-biting levelled at you all the time you are in possession of that web address?

i genuinely believe that by passing it to mark you will be making a gesture that will be your most significant act since creating this forum and you will come out of this with you're head held high and no-one can accuse you of anything untoward. it also prevents this rearing it's head again next year.

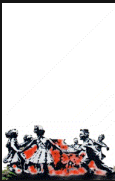

totally up to you, i don't want you to feel you're being bullied in to something you're uncomfortable doing, it can only work if you are happy to put this to bed, once and for all.

It's not the name silk and you know it, it's the awards, the concept, the idea. Give the whole thing over to FRP, step out of it.. and as a forum member, support the initiative through the boards. He's a long standing valued member of the community that came up with a great idea. You helped, as did many others I'm sure. But at the end of the day, if frp doesn't feel comfortable with your personal involvement, you should be big enough to step back and let him run things, but offer the support of the forum. That's all he's asking. No split, no new name, no nothing. Bigger, better 2008, but with FRP running things.

Though I have gained the fountain of knowledge I alluded to in my post above - I would have rather acquired it in a less depressing fashion - none the less - it has been an enlightening experience.

Did you know that most pirates had 2 good eyes. The only reason they wore an eye patch over one was so that when they were sailing/navigating at night they could remove the patch and that eye would be more sensitive in the low light!!

Just learnt that from a pack of squares crisps.

People cant have the sole rights over the idea of an art awards 😊 and I have clearly said that if he does not want me involved in what he has planned thats fine 😊

Fair enough you came up with the name but FBR came up with the concept. If you're happy to let him run the awards what is the purpose of keeping the name?
